NEWS RELEASE – May 7, 2007

Free Admission at the 2007 Crook County Fair was a key decision made during the April 19th, 2007 Crook County Fair Board meeting.

In its regular monthly meeting the Fair Board voted unanimously to require no gate admission fee for all five days of the 2007 Crook County Fair, scheduled for August 8th through the 12th.

Larry Smith, Board Chairman, said that “this is an important step for us in an attempt to make the Fair open and available to everyone in Central Oregon. We have been discussing this move since last November and the entire Board favors free admission.”

Fair manager Patrick Wood stated this morning that “this sends a positive message that the Crook County Fair is shaping itself to be the county fair where anyone can come and enjoy our community. The goal for the Fair this year is to open our doors and make this an affordable experience. There’s no reason not to visit us this year. Free parking and free admission? Where does that happen anymore? We are very excited.”

The annual Crook County Fair is scheduled for August 8th through the 12th. The 2007 Fair theme is “There’s Country in the Air at the Crook County Fair.”
